Cherise Lawrence, who received her Ph.D. in Psychology from the University of California at Berkeley, has been appointed as Assistant Professor of Psychology at the University of Texas at Austin. She is currently developing a new research project on the psychology of creativity and innovation.

In a Texas A&M publication, Prof. Robert Bloom, an expert in educational psychology, highlights the importance of teaching as a career choice. He emphasizes the need for more diversity in the field and encourages students to consider careers in education and psychology.

Cherise Lawrence completed her post-doctoral fellowship at Stanford University, where she worked with Dr. Jane Doe, an expert in cognitive psychology.

The University of Mississippi has announced the appointment of Dr. John Smith as the new Director of the Institute for Psychological Research. Smith brings with him a wealth of experience in the field of psychology.

Dr. Jane Doe, a professor at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, has been selected as the new Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Doe is known for her research on the psychology of gender and identity.

The Mississippi Medical Center has appointed Dr. John Smith as the new Director of the Center for Research in Medical Psychology. Smith brings with him a wealth of experience in the field of medical psychology.

The faculty at Texas A&M has welcomed new members, including Prof. Robert Bloom, who has joined the psychology department after completing his post-doctoral fellowship at Stanford University.
Study the psychological differences in women's sexual responses to sexual and nonsexual stimuli. Women's sexual response is lower and more variable than men's (Miller, E.N., 1988). This finding is consistent with the literature on women's sexual behavior and may help explain why women are often portrayed as less interested in sex and the impact of the men's beliefs about women's sexuality. Research on women's ability to reach and maintain sexual arousal and satisfaction is needed.

couples and families with adolescents and is doing some assessments. He and Ellen have a two year old son, Britton (pictures available on request).

1982: Bob Augelli (M.A.) would like to hear from all his old friends and wants them to know that he is back and planning to finish the program in 1990 or 1991. Bob finished his thesis while on the road with his band, Caribe. He then lived in Puerto Rico for two years promoting artists in concert (among them, Rueben Blades, Tito Puente, and Willy Colon) and television programs. He produced a weekly TV show called Son del Caribe, a Salsa program. When asked why he returned to academe, Bob replied, “There’s a lot to be said for the structure of a profession!” In addition to being a student again, Bob is teaching part-time in the School of Business.

1984: Bette Fletcher joined the Center for Family and Individual Counseling and the Central Missouri Pain and Stress Clinic in Columbia, Missouri, June 1, 1988. Her specialties are behavioral medicine consultation, biofeedback assisted psychophysiological self-regulation and stress management, and optimizing quality of life and coping responses for those facing chronic pain, physical illness and disability. After graduating, Bette was employed at the Harry S. Truman VA Hospital and served as an adjunct faculty member at the Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at UMKC School of Medicine.

Robin Lewis married Art Schoner on January 2, 1988. Art is an electronics engineer working for the government in Portsmouth, Virginia, where he and Robin now live. Robin continues in her position as assistant professor at Old Dominion and is preparing to go up for tenure in the next year. She also maintains a fairly active private practice and reports that the mix of teaching, research, and clinical work is good, but busy. “After seeing nine patients in a row yesterday after a morning of research meetings, I wonder about this mix. But for now I am hanging in!”

1985: Chris North traveled in Thailand and Nepal for two months in early 1988. He is working at Atascadero State Hospital, Atascadero, California. To his surprise, Chris finds that he enjoys forensic work with the criminally insane.

WIN BIG QUIZ

The question was, “What famous psychologist was on the first APA-site visit team to accredit the KU Department of Psychology Clinical Program??? (Hint: the year was 1948 or 1949).”

The answer is, Carl Rogers. Because no one provided the correct response, the prize, a “Beak ‘em Hawks” sweatshirt, remains unclaimed.
